

Because it is important the BFNations Ambassador develop their community, we created the Community Guidelines document.
Because it is not always easy to know what to do, we hope this will help to make easier the management of your respective local community.

You're here because you've been given the highest status within a nation on BFN; Ambassador. With power comes responsibility. Your role is meant to boost Battlefield - and BFN - within your respective nations, and includes:

- * Growing the community through your network of contacts
- * Contributing to a warm and welcoming atmosphere within your nations
  - * Planning out and running events within your nations
- * Assuring that there are active leaders in place for your nations rosters
- * Moderating and managing conflict-resolutions when necessary (hopefully never!)

Since your role spans across both the community and competitive-aspect, you'll be the main point of contact for BFN Admins regarding your nation. As you can imagine, we are looking for a specific personality type for these roles. Control-freaks, narcissists and dictators do not make good Ambassadors.

Instead, you're here because you have an open, and nice personality. You have integrity, and you are able to defuse conflicts instead of making it worse. You are a uniter of people, and you want nothing more than to see your nation stand united and running smooth.

Most importantly, you believe in what BFN is trying to accomplish in uniting the global battlefield community, and want to make damn sure that your own nation can be a role-model for others.

* Ambassadors should communicate with their Nation on a daily basis. There are multiple ways of completing this effectively. For example, Good morning/afternoon/evening, Posters, Greetings, News and etc.

Work with Chiva and Maple to keep your progress updated. The Ambassadors should notify them how they are performing.

* Ambassadors needs to have a strong connection with your Nation Community. How can you achieve this? By being in multiple Discord Servers for your Nation. Be involve.

* Ambassadors needs to be involved with their Nation to build a connection. You need to be willing to help anyone out at any reasonable time.

* Ambassadors need to be consistent at any give time no matter what. Being consistent goes a long way.

* Ambassadors need to be hosting Community events all the time, as that is our main role.

* Ambassadors need to be easy to work with.

* Ambassadors need to check in chats and channels to stay up-to-date
